

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

Regarding Communications

Contributors to the National Magazine will please observe carefully the following suggestions and keep them on file for reference when sending in a communication for publication. We can make no promise to print a communication that does not conform to these instructions. For example, one chapter sent in a communication in long hand. Our contract with the printer calls for typewritten copy. We regret that our time was too limited to have the manuscript typewritten. Therefore we had to go to press without it. Please remember, your Managing Editor draws no salary for his work and even receives no graft. Hence we have no time to devote to manuscript that was not sufficiently prized by the writer to conform to these simple rules.

1. All contributions from individuals, excepting the members of the Editorial Board, are to be sent through the writer's chapter. If the chapter approve it, the corresponding secretary will forward it to the Managing Editor for publication.

2. Corresponding secretaries are to send in all communications that are submitted for publication. We shall always take it for granted that a communication from a corresponding secretary has been approved by his chapter, or by a committee appointed for that purpose.

3. Preparation of manuscript:

- a. Use typewriter.
- b. Use bond or ledger paper.
- c. Double space, and write on only one side of the paper.
- d. Send an exact carbon copy of the manuscript with the original.
- e. Sign your name or write a letter accompanying manuscript.
- f. Proof-read manuscript carefully before mailing.
- g. We go to press on the 30th of October, January, March and May respectively. To insure publication, manuscript must reach us not later than the 25th.
- h. Address all communications to

ABEL J. McALLISTER,
Managing Editor Phi Delta Kappan,
2801 East Sixth Street,
Kansas City, Mo.